
Introducing Command and Conquer: Generals Project Raptor! This is a fantastic mod for the popular RTS game Command and Conquer: Generals. It's essentially a remake of the original game, with revamped graphics, sound, and gameplay features such as weather changes and an enhanced fog of war system. This mod has been in development for over three years by hundreds of people from all around the world. The mod features several new factions and units, such as the Airborne Unit and Elite Shock Trooper. The unit creation screen has been reworked, and the player can now choose from a variety of available units instead of creating a custom one. Weather conditions and fog of war have also been improved so that players can better see what's ahead while playing on the battlefield. This is currently Command and Conquer: Generals Project Raptor's beta 1 release, so this version does not represent the final product that will be released at some point in the future. In fact, the devs plan to amass a gigantic team of people from all over the world to make this one of the most popular mods for Command and Conquer: Generals. Stay tuned for more information regarding this exciting modification! In fact, the first one was released in 1995. After that, they have been released quite often. Even with many different releases of this type of game being created there is a huge fan base for Commander and Conquer series. Commander and Conquer is a real-time strategy game where the player creates their own army to command on a battlefield with other players or NPCs(Non-Playable Characters). The objective is to destroy your enemy's base while defending yours from harm.
