They are all in alignment with the Law of Attraction. I have had recurring nightmares about getting in my car and driving off into the distance... There have been many of them over the years. Usually my car would be parked in the driveway and I would be standing in the front yard with a bag full of valuables, a hat, and a cane, holding my arms outstretched and waving goodbye. The rational part of me knew I was imagining it and that if I left my house, there wouldn't be a bad outcome. But the fear was real. And in those moments I would fear that one of the more troublesome scenarios could actually come true. It wasn't until I started using "The Law of Attraction" that I was able to come to terms with my subconscious fear of being alone and driving off into the unknown. These negative thoughts and fears are a reflection of my vibration. And if they represent an element of my vibration that I'm
