KeyMacro is a powerful commandline IDE for writing keyboard macros. Using KeyMacro you can record any keyboard sequence to a macro file which can be run later on to execute the same sequence of keystrokes. KeyMacro is a simple and flexible solution for creating and recording keyboard macros. It enables you to record a series of keys or key combinations and then save it to a macro file which can then be saved in your favorites list, sent to email, or scheduled to run any time you choose. KeyMacro will take just a few minutes to get you going, but it can become a powerful tool for scripting, automating, and preparing your computer for your needs. KeyMacro is the easiest, most flexible way to create and run keyboard macros for Windows and Mac. KeyMacro's simple user interface and ability to run any sequence of keyboard keys make it the ideal tool for quick, easy, and automated script creation. KeyMacro will allow you to use your favorite scripting languages such as Ruby, Perl, Python, Tcl, PHP, Batch files, and more. KeyMacro supports hotkeys, hotstring, and custom keystrokes including combinations of multiple keys. Use KeyMacro to program your favorite function hotkey. KeyMacro will record any programmable command, so that you can easily assign it to a hotkey. KeyMacro can also record any key combo with modifier keys (ctrl, alt, shift, etc). KeyMacro supports all of the major keyboard layouts including English, US, and various international layouts. KeyMacro is a simple and flexible solution for creating and running keyboard macros.
