and follow the steps for troubleshooting. # Formatting and Sharing Files Photoshop makes it easy to share your images and get feedback on them. Often, the most interesting challenge is to get an image just right the first time. When creating JPEG, GIF, or PNG files, you can preview the image on screen before you save it, but when creating PSD files, you need to wait until you have the image on the hard drive. ## JPEG JPEG is a popular, widely accepted file format for photos. Whether you are saving a web image or an image to print, it is a great format for saving large images quickly. JPEG is a lossy image format, which means that it stores all of the image data with the image. Figure 10.6 shows a JPEG file. It is often compressed to save file space, but the image quality is the same, or similar, to that of the original. To save a JPEG, create a new Photoshop document, select all of the images, and then click Save As. The file will appear in the preview area. Figure 10.6: JPEG ## GIF GIF (Graphics Interchange Format) is a popular format for sharing images online. GIF is a lossy image format, so the file size is smaller than that of a JPEG file. GIF files are generally between one and five megabytes, depending on how large the image is. It has several advantages over a JPEG file, including the fact that GIFs load faster in web browsers, and GIFs can have transparency. Figure 10.7 shows a GIF file. Click Save to save the file. Figure 10.7: GIF

In this article I'll guide you through a basic tutorial for editing images using Photoshop Elements and Adobe Photoshop. We'll start out with a "blurry" image of the Scream Factory logo and cover some basic editing techniques.

01. Editing an Image in Adobe Photoshop

Before we do anything with the image, we'll set the scene to edit the image on a new canvas.

- 1) Open the image and then choose File > New.
- 2) Name the new image photo_1, and then click Create. Now we're ready to do some basic editing. Select the brush tool (T) and drag out a large, soft round brush.
- 3) We're going to blur the image as a starting point. Using the brush tool, drag out a soft round brush in a large range of colours. We are going to apply the changes to this brush in steps in Photoshop. The value under the brush is the filter on the image. The three different grey values in the left corner are the grey values of the three basic colours in the image. These are the perfect starting colours for editing. A) Use the Hard Light filter to bring out the details of the image. Then use the Soft Light filter to bring up the white parts of the image. B) Make the grey values lighter using the Clouds filter. C) Bring down the contrast of the image using the Vivid Light filter. D) Darken the grey values using the Darken filter. E) For the highlights, use the Lighten filter to bring them up. F) Bring down the contrast of the image with the Vivid Light filter. G) Lighten the highlights again using the Lighten filter. H) Use the Soft Edge filter to soften the shadows. I) We can now see that our image is starting to look good. To undo the changes we've made, select the Rectangular Selection tool (R) and then drag out a rectangular selection around the image. When you click OK, the image will revert back to its previous state. Now we can make some other changes to our image. 04. Highlight the image and Add Layer Style A) Select the Select tool (V) and then drag out a selection around the text of the logo. B) Add a Layer Style to the layer

Western Australian government officials today recommended foreign worker visas be abolished and a dedicated immigration system introduced to help with the region's unemployment problem. Authorities now believe the number of jobs being filled by Australian workers is already at capacity and that WA's booming resources sector is further damaging the state's productivity. Unemployment is currently at 8.4 per cent, and the current policy of taking on foreign workers means Western Australia is suffering a skills shortage, commissioners for the export-orientated Department of Premier and Cabinet said. An additional 28,000 WA jobs needed to be filled in 2008-09, according to the commissioners.Q: C# - Comparing the values in an object I have two objects with a bunch of properties, something like A = {B = {id = 123, name = car1 }, C = {id = 456, name = car2}} B = {id = 321, name = car3}, C = {id = 789, name = car4} what i need to do is to compare the values of the objects so I can remove duplicates. to be clear by comparing the values of the objects they must be the same otherwise there is no point removing them. If A.B.id == B.id AND A.C.id == C.id then the duplicates must be removed. I tried doing the following: var newSet = new List
