Revo. Revo Uninstaller Pro. 1. Field of the Invention The invention relates generally to a winch apparatus. More particularly the invention relates to a winch apparatus with an engine output shaft that passes through an opening of a mounting plate and couples to a sprocket wheel for driving an output device through a cable so as to raise and lower a load. 2. Description of the Prior Art Various types of devices are known for drawing, lifting or pulling loads. These known devices typically include a motor or engine coupled to a sprocket wheel. The engine output shaft drives the sprocket wheel to rotate. The sprocket wheel, with another shaft attached thereto, drives an output device to lift or pull a load. These known devices have many disadvantages. One disadvantage of these known devices is that they are complicated and require numerous components and connections in the assembly of the device. These known devices are often more expensive than desired. In addition, these devices often require a service person to disassemble the mechanism for maintenance. Other known devices are limited in the amount of power delivered to the sprocket wheel. Other known devices are not capable of all of the functions required for the various needs of the industry in which these devices are used. Known winch devices include an input shaft that couples to an engine and an output shaft that couples to a sprocket wheel. Other known devices include a cam that engages teeth on the sprocket wheel and a separate shaft that couples to the cam and couples to a manual winch drum. What is needed is a winch device with a power generator for providing power and a mechanical advantage to lift or pull a load. What is also needed is a winch device that is simple in construction, easy to assemble, easy to maintain, easily scalable, and having a low manufacturing cost.#!/bin/sh # This file is automatically generated by docker-image-cleaner # DO NOT EDIT set -e if [$# -lt 1]; then echo "Usage: $0 3e33713323
