What's New In AppMaker?

This is a very low-level API for App Maker, used to manipulate the schema of App Maker databases. No authentication is used, as App Maker has no concept of Users or any application-level authentication. This API is deliberately simple to use, as App Maker expects a full-blown database programming interface. This API has been deprecated in favor of App Maker's new Table/Screen API. Node.js Example Using Node.js and App Maker's official App Maker API we can create a very simple database using the Node.js console. The schema and structure of the database will be created by App Maker. `var app = appMaker.createApplication(); var db = app.database; db.importFile('/Users/denis/Desktop/helloApp.csv'); console.log(db.table('Hello'));` Example Hello.csv Fields cid String cname String Structure hello, World! A: Here is an example in Node.js of App Maker's SQL API using a CSV file. `var db = app.database(); db.importFile('your_file.csv');` `db.table('table_name').column('column_name').contains('text_to_look_for');` Here is a Node.js package that also provides some simple CLI commands to call App Maker's SQL API: (Chia-Chi CHI) is the focus of CHI.
