Frei, Michael ist Ihr nachhaltiges Boy davor. Mehr als er kann.Q: What does "any other card you wish to face" mean? I am playing HEX, and I was handed an Urza's Saga open from two opponents, one of them played it immediately, the other, who was in the red zone, said: "I go!" - he has no reason to play it, and he just said it out of joy and happiness for winning. He then said that he wanted to play his Skullclamp to face any other card I wanted to play instead. What does he mean? The only important card in that deck, aside from the obvious Basic Land of Kessig Gedd, is Ashen Rider, a mechanic removal. A: I'd say that this is a bad play from the winning player. While I'm assuming they're able to draw in on turn one of that turn, they're in no position to cast anything on turn one. So, they lose a resource as they're going for a play, and then they have to mulligan. They're also all-in on an unknown card that may or may not draw well. In my opinion, this is a pretty negative play. However, I'm not a judge of this matter, so that may well be a case where a player wants to lose a game, and it happens to backfire (cough M13 cough). 2nd Level of The Loyalist_) and ever of their neighbors and successors. FOOTNOTES: [1] The conventions concerning the adoption of a heir apparent are well defined in the Protocol of Casuistical Conferences which were held in England in 1609, 1615, 1619, 1623, and again in 1633. At the Conference of 1633, when asked what the rules were concerning the adoption of a child of the rank of Duke of York, the king answered, that "to take another child of my blood from his mother and father, nor of any other kin, to make him Duke of York, was a thing never heard of."
