The Uplink Skype to SIP Adapter is intended to make it possible for people to communicate on Skype through other VoIP protocols. The utility itself works on SkypeOut, PSTN, softphone or any third-party VoIP adapter. It makes sure that both incoming and outgoing calls on Skype are routed correctly and that the calls are free of any latency or errors. For this procedure to be effective, a single SIP trunk needs to be created and routed through the protocol conversion. Only after that the communication with Skype works as expected. The software program allows both live and recorded calls to be redirected through the Skype network. The inbound calls will show up on Skype as SIP outbound calls, which can be forwarded in order to make it appear as if they were incoming calls from Skype users.
