Generator For Windows Defender Premium 2010The Importance of Building Community There is something about being a part of a community, a collective of people working together, that is inspiring. A traditional kibbutz, for example, is a collective project that allows people to live together in a communal environment. The kibbutz's intentional building of community has been studied as a basis for positive psychological development throughout history. It's an example of how having a community takes care of each other through important life events. There is also something about being a part of a community that encourages shared vulnerability and support. Feeling comfortable in your own body is an important part of psychological health, and it is difficult to do so in a world that is overtly competitive. When you have a community of people who are all in the same boat, and that have all been through the same things, you are all learning from the same experiences and you are better off for it. What does community look like for you? If you aren't currently in a community, how can you begin to build one? This video features interviews with 10 people I have met through social media who are building and growing community in their own ways. What do their stories tell you about building and maintaining community?The various political groups that are trying to win seats on the boards of non-profits and charities in Canada have a new parliamentary ally. Paul Brunet, the Liberal MP for the riding of Vancouver Kingsway, has now officially joined the fight to have the watchdogs
