SPATIAL ASSESSMENT OF FACIAL EMOTIONAL SYMPATHY IN THE CAPTIVE CARIBBEAN TREE CRESTED SAILFAN: A PILOT STUDY. Canine facial emotion perception has been extensively studied in humans; however, less research has focused on companion animals. Here we examined facial emotional cues of the captive Caribbean tree crested flying-fox (Pteropus posaguae), a widely captive and threatened species, using a hybrid face-scanner methodology. We collected photographs of P. posaguae from four captive colonies in Florida, USA, from volunteers and from the Internet. We analyzed the perceptual saliency of five facial emotions (happy, angry, sad, fearful, and surprised) using an automated face-scanning software. We assessed inter-observer agreement on eight P. posaguae photographs and on photographs of two other flying-fox species (P. rodrici and P. conspicillatus) to explore species variation. The automated face-scanning software consistently identified all five emotions in our pilot sample of 44 P. posaguae photographs. Perception of emotions across observers were highly correlated with images of P. posaguae and P. rodrici, but not P. conspicillatus, suggesting the strong influence of intraspecific facial variation in facial perception. We are the first to report facial emotion assessment in this species, which has important implications for implementing affective assays in captivity.

The Puppy Gap – Day Three And of course, I came home to a rescued pup. These aren't new pups to dogs

Q: Unable to convert IEnumerable to List I have a custom class Post with an int Id, string Title and string Content. I have a method which gets all the posts from DB, this returns IEnumerable. I try to pass this method in another function and convert this method's output to List but this error is comes : System.InvalidCastException: 'Specified cast is not valid.' I have a function like :

public static List GetAllProducts() { var db = new Entities(); return (from p in db.Products where!p.IsDeleted select new Product { Id = p.ProductId, Title = p.Title, Content = p.Content }).ToList(); }

and then i use this function in another method like this: List product = GetAllProducts(); I pass the List product in the function like this :

public void UpdateProducts(List product) { //... }

A: In your GetAllProducts() you are returning an IQueryable instead of an IEnumerable. Try the following instead (I renamed some variables to help you spot what was a mistake) public static IEnumerable GetAllProducts() { var db = new Entities(); return (from p in db.Products where!p.IsDeleted select new Product { Id = p.ProductId, Title = p.Title,
