The use of the Player Instincts in-game has been expanded to include “Navigation,” which finds your teammates from anywhere on the pitch using in-game sensors, similar to the “Smart Scout” in FIFA 21. “There are a lot of people who either don’t understand the game or maybe haven’t played it for years because of the differences between the old graphics and what they have seen on current gaming consoles,” said Charles Attfield, Head of Pro Soccer. “We have been pushing since day one that our pitch is about current players, current ideas, current commentary and current visual innovation. This is an important piece of that puzzle and will make the experience of playing FIFA on consoles a lot more intuitive for more people.”

Graphical Improvements

A new rendering system brings the global lighting system to FIFA 22. The lighting adds tons of depth and realism to the game. Frostbite also provides the detail and texture mapping that is required to capture the beauty of the Copa America, UEFA Champions League, Women’s World Cup and other fan-favourite global tournaments. FIFA will never be complete without a new boots-footwear combo. The boots, which were first revealed in FIFA 19, bring a new modern feel to the boots seen in the game and on the pitch.

New Player Gear

In addition to offering a range of new physical boots, FIFA 21 introduced a range of new shirts, shorts and socks. This year's FIFA World Cup Kits are the most striking set of kits in the history of the series. Each kit has a unique look and feel, and they work well with the new stadium experience featured in the game.

The new World Cup Kits include the apparel worn in Russia 2018 and these new kits bring a fresh look to FIFA's most famous event. With the re-launch of all new components, the new clothing options will look great both online and in-game. FIFA 22 will also be a much more connected experience. Players can now be more connected to the game on all platforms by receiving badges for performances and events in the game, including "Best Block," "Best Tackle," "Best Pitch Interception," "Best Player Performance" as well as the more creative events like "Goal of the Year."
