One dog has been shot, another is missing after fighting with another off-leash pooch, and the owner of the dog that was shot is demanding a $3 million dollar insurance claim. The dispute began Monday when the owner of the Chico came onto the lower level of West 4th Street near University Place and got into a brawl with an off-leash dog. The owner of the Chico, who is in her 60s, sustained a wound to her stomach when her dog was shot during the fight, sources said. The dog that was shot is still missing, despite efforts by NYPD dog control officers to track him down, officials said. "From what I heard, she was in hysterics," said a passerby, who works in the neighborhood and gave his name as John. "You can hear her screaming." The woman has filed an insurance claim but the owner of the dog has refused to give it up, according to sources. A spokesman for the health department said that the dog shot Monday was adopted in 2012, so its ownership could not be verified. Area businesses have been vocal in demanding that the dog owner move her pet, but when she left the area Monday, her dog was still in place on the sidewalk, sources said. A number of residents have posted pictures of the dog's wound on social media and even copied and pasted them into email signatures. The Yorkville Dog Council sent a letter to the New York City Department of Health and Mental Hygiene complaining that the dog is a dangerous nuisance and asking that the dog owner be declared dangerous and have her license revoked, the council wrote in the letter. The Department of Health has opened an investigation into the dog's owners, said Stephanie Pollack, a spokeswoman for the health department. If the owner does not surrender the dog by the end of the
